

E-LEARNING FOR COMMUNITY HOUSING – BE INSPIRED !!

Find out about online learning for community housing organisations

NSW Federation of Housing Associations has been developing resources to encourage the take up, and support the use of, online technologies for professional development in the community housing industry nationally.

A half day free forum is being offered by the NSWFA to demonstrate resources available to your organisation to increase the use of online learning and to provide a taster for how your community housing organisation can use technologies more effectively as part of your work practice.

Senior decision makers as well as housing workers are invited to attend the forum to explore the opportunities and implications for e-learning in community housing.

The forum will include:

1. Show and tell aspects of the learning management system developed for community housing including:
  - the set up of the NSWFA learning management system ( using the Moodle platform)
  - explanation of some of the interactive e-learning features such as flash activities, wikis, blogs, chat rooms and discussion forums
  - use of games for e-learning
2. Demonstration of the usefulness of these e-learning goodies in creating and delivering online units towards the Diploma of Social Housing (two units have already been developed already and there are more to come)
3. The use of role play online to enhance online learning/professional development
4. Discussion of the mentoring program and the use of electronic tools to enhance the program
5. Gather information from the forum and your members about how they would/could use flexible and electronic tools in their workplaces and in the social housing industry.
